Dedication

HIRTY years ago a quiet, modest man assumed the office of Dean of Wake Forest College, Throughout his term of office he has seen four different presidents take office and has served each with the same lovalty, industry and faithfulness. During that time he has earned the respect of students and faculty alike. It is with a courageous heart that he has met many a sorrow, joy, hardship and difficulty. A sympathetic, understanding individual, he is always ready to listen to another story of misfortune, success or wrongdoing, meting out justice or advice as needed. It is to this man, Dr. Daniel Bunyan Bryan, Dean of the College, that we proudly dedicate this, our Golden Anniversary Issue of the Howler.

Foreword

The 1953 Golden Anniversary Howler, in addition to recording the school year's events, will briefly cover the highlights of the yearbook's existence. Because it is an anniversary edition, it has been planned as a fine art book, one that can be enjoyed as well twenty-five years from now as at the present time. In the 1953 Howler the pictorial record of Wake Forest College in 1952-753 will be presented with respect to the various buildings on the campus. These edifices appear in the annual in the chronological order of their construction. Campus activities and organizations will be grouped according to the place on the campus with which they are most intimately associated. In the science section, for example, will appear ODK, for its adviser is a chemistry professor. All divisions, besides pictures of the work and activities which take place in the particular structures, will include the professional and honorary societies connected with them. March with us through the years from the Heck-Williams Building to the New Chapel in Winston-Salem. "She lights her candle from our torches."

LAW FACULTY

Teaching law as a sideline, the law school faculty actively engages in extracurricular activities. Dean Carroll Weathers serves on six different faculty committees and is chairman of the Committee on Revision of Library Standards of the Association of American Law Schools. Leonard Powers, faculty adviser of Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity, directed this year's Religion in Life Week. Professor Soule is secretary of the Wake Forest College Lawyer Alumni Association and teaches Sunday School. All in all, the members of the law faculty are "wheels" as well as "brains."

THIRD YEAR LAW

Filling their hours with much hard and "brainsplitting" work, the third year law class students have applied themselves to the task of obtaining that last bit of information which may help in their first case, once the bar has been passed. Under the able and efficient leadership of their officers, Thomas East. President; Bob Allen, Vice-President; Bob Savage, Secretary; and Edward Tenney, Treasurer, the class has been able to prepare itself for a career in the legal profession. With court room procedure taking an outstanding place on the calendar of studies, the third year class has held moot court in order to train students to be prominent lawyers in the courts. With their law degrees almost in sight, the third year law students breathe a sigh of relief before tackling the job of passing the bar.

SECOND YEAR

With new fields of legal "magic" opened up to them, the second year students have shown a definite quest for the knowledge which will make successful lawyers. With vague thoughts of the bar exam in their heads, the second year students take it easy for a semester as they think of that long third year ahead. No longer freshmen, they push forward to new goals.

FIRST YEAR

Calling the law building "home" for the first time, the freshman law class acquired speedily the legal language, and by the end of the year they felt that they were "distinguished lawyers." Catching on quickly to the idea of no quizzes, the students enjoyed themselves while waiting for those "do or die" examinations. It did not take the freshman students long to discover that chapel period is a convenient time to have breakfast or just another cup of coffee to keep awake while learning about domestic relations or the problems of personal property. With two years to go the first year students look ahead to many hours of study.

STUDENT BAR ASSOCIATION Officers heading the activities of the students of the Wake Forest Law School during 1952-53 are Robert Weathers, vice-president; Lester Martin, secretary; Edgar Christman, president; Les Browder, treasurer.

STUDENT BAR ASSOCIATION

Under the leadership of Ed Christman as president, the Student Bar Association began its year by sponsoring in co-operation with the faculty an orientation program for the freshman students to acquaint them with the history and work of the law school. Outstanding item of the fall orientation program was the talk by Professor Edgar Timberlake on the "Early History of Wake Forest Law School." This orientation program was repeated in the spring for the new students of the second semester. The Student Bar Association held its annual fall banquet in the Wake Forest Cafeteria on October 17 with James P. McGranery, Attorney General of the United States, as the speaker. Senator Willis Smith, along with other distinguished North Carolinians and alumni of the law school, was present for the event. Sponsoring a forum entitled "The Christian Rests His Case" and a speaker, Frank Hanft from Carolina Law School, the Student Bar Association did its part to make "Religion in Life Week" a success.

PHI ALPHA DELTA

Beginning the year with a smoker in "the house on the corner," the Edgar Timberlake Chapter of Phi Alpha Delta opened a successful term. Football games with State and Duke were scenes of parties for the returning alumni. Choosing Durham for a joint initiation with Carolina in November, the chapter took in seven new members. The house came in for its share of new things when a rug, two lamps and a library cabinet were bought. Dinner meetings were held with speakers Bill Gibson, FBI agent, and Dr. Robert E. Lee of the law faculty, outstanding men in the law profession. Honors in law school were held by Robert Weathers, who served as "veep" of the Student Bar Association, and three of the Senior Class Officers, who were PAD men. For the top spot on the calendar, the Edgar Timberlake Chapter along with the University of North Carolina served as hosts for the Twelfth District Conclave in March with Wake Forest College's Spencer Emisserving as the Justice for the entire district.

Redecorating the chapter room, Ruffin Inn, Wake's chapter of Phi Delta Phi, the largest and oldest national legal fraternity, opened its 1952-53 year. A smoker was held in September with Ruffin Inn getting its share of new pledges. Monthly dinner meetings were held during the fall with Chief Justice Devin of the North Carolina Supreme Court, Solicitor White of Durham County and Superior Court Judge J. W. Pless, speakers for the events. Knowing that study is required, the boys from "the corner of Hunter" went after the scholarship trophy, hoping to garner the award for the highest average for the sixth consecutive year.

Having proved that they could win the scholarship trophy, the boys from Ruffin Inn came ont with top leadership victories in the law school elections. The major office of law school was held by Edgar Christman, a senior, who was President of the Student Bar Association. Ruffin Inn was the winner of two other top posts when its men Bob Wilson and Lomie Williams were chosen to serve on the Student Council, and Dewey Wells was elected as law member of the Student Legislature. On March 13, Ruffin Inn held its big event of the academic year when it met with Phi Delta Phi chapters from Carolina and Duke for a joint initiation of their new members. The Raleigh Country Club was chosen for the big spot on the calendar.

LIBRARY

Acquiring expensive habits, the library spent a pleasant year adding rare editions to the growing stacks. A choice "find" was a rare edition of the Aitkin Bible (1782), the first Bible to be published in the colonies in the English language. An important gift of a very exclusive social club in Paris to "an expanding American college" was over one hundred bound copies of a famous French magazine which dates back to 1831. From time to time this year the library has featured some of its rare volumes in interesting displays for the benefit of the students.

PHI BETA KAPPA

Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic fraternity founded December 5, 1776 at the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg, Virginia, had its beginnings on the Wake Forest Campus in the period following World War I. The attempt at the establishment of a chapter failed, and the subject did not arise again until 1939 when the idea of a chapter received the sanction of President Kitchin, and in the spring of 1940 a detailed report of the school was sent to the national headquarters, and the school was visited by the National President of Phi Beta Kappa. In the fall of 1940 the charter for the Wake Forest chapter was passed upon in its annual convention held in San Francisco, and the charter was granted on January 13, 1911.

The North Carolina Delta Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa elects each spring members of the student body who excel in scholastic standing, character and cultural interests to membership. Election to this honorary fraternity which was founded with the three avowed principles: devotion to friendship, to morality and to literature is considered one of the most coveted honors that can come to a student. Officers of the Delta Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa for 1952-'53 were Dr. A. C. Reid, president; Dr. C. J. Earp, vice-president; Carlton West, secretarytreasurer. In March all those students with outstanding records in scholarship and other necessary qualifications were extended invitations to become members of Phi Beta Kappa. Although attending conventions seems to hold a high priority here, this is a versatile delegation. This year Dr. Cocke has been tapped to ODK; Mr. Allen has planned and directed the new addition to the church; and Dr. Bradbury has been writing a book. Together with Dr. Britt they have attended several biological meetings.

CHEMISTRY FACULTY, Dr. Miller, Associate Professor; Dr. Blalock, Assistant Professor; Dr. Nowell, Associate Professor.

Dr. Charles S. Black Professor of Chemistry

The Wake Forest chemistry department is unique in having a faculty of four talented doctors, all specialists in different fields of chemistry. Dr. Black, head of the department has done his work with inorganics, Dr. Miller in organics, and Dr. Blalock in analytical while students regard Dr. Nowell a whiz in physical.

OMICRON DELTA KAPPA

Under the able leadership of Dr. Jack Nowell, adviser, and Dr. Henry Stroupe, faculty secretary, Beta Alpha circle of Omicron Delta Kappa began the year with a most successful leadership conference in conjunction with the National Student Association. Plans have been made to continue the event again this fall. A group of the local members attended the eighteenth National Biennial Convention in Roanoke, Virginia, at which all 77 circles were represented. Fall and spring initiations brought many outstanding new members to the Wake chapter.

During its annual pansy sale, Beta Rho Chapter distributed 10,000 plants and beautified the circle in front of Wait Hall. From the proceeds came a gift to the College Enlargement Fund while the balance helped defray the expenses of sending about 30 representatives to the regional convention in Miami along with 12 from Beta Gamma chapter at W. C. Members also collected and sold materials to several biological supply bouses and placed in the national essay contest.

GAMMA SIGMA EPSILON

At the National Convention, which included a tour of the Cancer Research Foundation at the University of Florida, Alpha Gamma chapter was well represented at the interesting program by four members including Dr. Black, who is a national officer. A new and most impressive mitiation ceremony was followed both in the fall and spring with barbecue suppers at Turnage's in Durham. Awards to the outstanding freshman and senior chemistry students were made.

North Carolina Gamma Chapter began the year by assisting with the operation of the Asray elinic on the campus and arranging a trip to Bowman Gray School of Medicine in Winston-Salem. Speeches by members of the faculty of both Bowman Gray and Duke, together with this trip, are probably responsible for the large number of students entering these schools. The society has sponsored regular programs over WFDD and set up several quite interesting displays in the Johnson Biology Building. A number of active members have made most interesting talks as well as Dr. Bradbury as faculty adviser. The chapter held two initiations, during which many new members, including two honorary ones, were introduced.

Following Dr. Pearson's resignation. Professor Clouts became acting chairman of the Social Science Department, taking over a capable faculty along with his new duties. Dr. Perry returned from a summer of study in Cleveland; Dr. Stroupe and Dr. Yearns, from the nine-week Wake Forest summer session; and Professor Jones, from special study. This faculty also welcomed two newcomers from Duke University, Dr. Richards and Dr. Cumningham. Professor Smiley, absent on leave, spent the year finishing work on his thesis for the Ph.D. degree.

MONOGRAM CLUB

There is only one organization occupying a permanent office in the student center that is not a member of the Publications Board. This organization produces no publications or broadcast schedules. From behind the "Members Only" sign on the door emerge instead snatches of conversation, sounds of a television set and members with gold "W's" on their sweaters. From within this "athlete's retreat" there occasionally comes a splendid idea or a worthwhile project under the leadership of Buddy

Smith—such as the "Miss Demon Deacon" contest. After nominating twelve coeds for the title, the Monogram Club gave the students the privilege of selecting the victor—at a penny a vote. This year's winner, Miss Julie Watson, was later named Queen of the 1952 Dixie Basketball Classic. The club also sponsored a trophy for the most outstanding football player, who this year was linebacker Joe Koch, and, as in previous years, they gave several dances at the community house for the student body.

PUBLICATIONS

Once a month, editorial "bosses" set aside time to discuss all problems concerning members of "Pub Row." The editors and business managers of the three student publications, the station manager and business manager of radio station WFDD and other representatives of these organizations composed the Publications Board, which made decisions concerning general policies, operations and finances of the member organizations. One of the major considerations of the board this year was the revision of their constitution in order that station WFDD could be operated as a regular member of the board. The board exercised another power in the fall by nominating two new business managers to fill vacancies left by resignations. This student board, with the approval of the Faculty Publications Board, also nominated editors and business managers for the next school year.

WFDD

For "the voice of Wake Forest College" this year was one of change and innovation. First of all, station WFDD, a member of the Intercollegiate Broadcasting System, was directed by a coed station manager, Ida Kay Jordan, who planned station activities with a woman's new ideas and progressive action. Several important changes were made in the way of additional broadcasting time: "The Coffee Shop," an early "wake-up" program from 7-9 a.m.; "The 580 Club" from 5-7 p.m; and "Rendezvous with Music," a program of uninterrupted music immediately following "Deaconlite Serenade," On Saturday afternoons WFDD presented music and chatter by two female disc jockeys, and on Sunday afternoons, classical and semi-classical music for easy listening. Some interesting changes were made in programs for regular evening broadcast time, too. Each evening at 9:30 the Radio Workshop presented a fifteen minute program with variety as the keynote—sometimes a drama, sometimes a quiz program, always interesting. Proving that it's a woman's world too, WFDD began a series of programs by the coeds for the coeds. These programs presented news and features of special interest to the females. For all its listeners the station arranged to broadcast the major sports events. For the first time the office on "Pub Row" was open from 10 to 12 on Tuesday and Thursday mornings for listeners to argue, suggest or complain to station officials about programs.

"We need more material from the students for our magazine," was the constant cry of Student co-editors, Blevyn Hathcock and Tom Mezger. Always searching for new talent in the field of writing, these editors worked to make The Student. Wake Forest College's literary magazine. live up to its aim—finding and publishing the best creative writing on the Demon Deacon campus. In an effort to bring to light some of this talent and to stimulate students to write and contribute to the magazine, the editors sponsored a short story contest in connection with the second issue of The Student. This contest was open to any student whose writings had not been published in a previous issue and who was interested enough to submit a manuscript for consideration. The stories were judged by Professor Brown and Dr. Wilson of the English department faculty, who declared John Durham. Mocksville sophomore, first place winner of ten dollars and the pleasure of seeing his story. "The Silver Platter," published in the December edition. The judging for second place resulted in a three-way tie between Patsy Pearce, Bob Pratt and Tony Wrenn, The Student magazine also started the year with a "new face"-a special cover designed for each issue by Tom

Mezger featuring a poem appropriate to the theme of the issue. The first of these covers featured Otis Gossman's poem "Autumn," which was accepted for publication in an anthology of college poetry. Two poems published in the December issue—"To a Lost Love" by Charles Williams and "Fate" by Tom Mezger—were published along with Gossman's poem in the 1953 edition of In Anthology of College Poetry. Other issues of The Student were published in February. March and May. The February issue featured something new—a double student-professor "see yourself as othersee you" article. In this feature professors compared their students to their conception of ideal students, who then turned the tables. Two articles of international interest written by alumni now abroad also appeared in a late spring issue. The May issue was compiled by the new co-editors, Pat Banks and Byrd Barnette, and business manager Taylor Sanford.

OLD GOLD AND BLACK

"Covering the campus like the magnolias," from the editorial office on "Pub Row." the Old Gold and Black continued its tradition of giving the best coverage of campus news. Instead of mailing the papers this year the circulation staff distributed them after chapel each Monday morning, and, needless to say, Monday chapel attendance was boosted to an all-time high. It is even rumored that some unfortunate professors teaching third period classes finally gave in and set aside the first fifteen minutes of class for students to read the Old Gold and Black. Whether that is true or not, it is a fact that students, faculty members and alumni alike still looked to this paper for news about Wake Forest. Sports write-ups on our fine varsity teams and all intramural events, articles on the progress of the new Wake Forest College campus at Winston-Salem, exchange columns with news from other campuses and the old, familiar Boregard Smith articles were all to be found in the 1952-53 OG and B. In addition the paper published special feature articles on important campus personalities-student and faculty members, a weekly calendar of campus events, well-written and widely read editorials and a "Letters to the Editor" column, through which readers could air their complaints (or their praise!). All this and good photographs too! Behind all this were those slave-drivers known

Important also was the ever-struggling business staff, whose task it was to keep the paper out of bankruptcy. And last but not least, the largest group, the ones who really kept the paper alive and better than ever—its readers.

THE 1953 HOWLER

The fiftieth anniversary of The Howler was not observed with the traditional Golden Anniversary festivities, but the staff did celebrate this important milestone in the history of an important college publication. a yearbook. The staff was reorganized for greater efficiency; writers studied styles in annuals of other colleges in order to improve their own copy; photographers used "tear sheets" taken from magazines as ideas for really different and interesting photographs; and all watched the charts on the office walls to check what they had accomplished. These charts colored in as work was completed, were a measure of The Howler's progress as the staff worked hard to get the yearbook to the students before the anniversary was officially over. And now the finished product—the staff's gift to you.

ENGLISH FACULTY

The English Faculty, better classified as the Wake Forest Advisory Council, has spent a busy year advising many student activities on the campus. Dr. Folk is the general adviser over all publications; Dr. Wilson, the adviser for the Howler; and Professor Brown, adviser for the Student magazine. Professor Shirley is coach of the debate team, and Professor McElroy advises the dramatic activities on the campus and also the radio station. Indeed it may be concluded that the English Department is composed of twelve versatile faculty members under the supervision of Dr. H. Broadus Jones.

DEBATE TEAM

1952-53 found Wake Forest again one of the top debate powers in the South. The team, directed by Franklin R. Shirley, consisted of sixteen debaters, eight of whom were experienced members of the 1951-52 squad. Virgil Moorefield and Joe Mauney were co-managers. In pre-Christmas tournaments at Columbia, South Carolina; Boone, North Carolina; and Gainesville, Florida, Wake Forest placed second, copped numerous honors, and won a tournament championship, respectively. Following the pattern of these victories Wake Forest won the Ohio State Invitational at Columbus, Ohio, and took second place on the affirmative at the Miami Invitational. Other important tournaments were the National Pi Kappa Delta tournament at Kalamazoo, Michigan; the Cherry Blossom Invitational in Washington, D. C.; the South Atlantic at Hickory, North Carolina; the Southeastern Speech at Greenville, South Carolina; and the West Point Regional at Atlanta, Georgia. During the season Wake Forest took victories from such prominent teams as Army, Navy, Florida State, Ohio State and Miami, Pi Kappa Delta is a national honorary forensic fraternity which encourages participation in speech activities on the campus. Each year Pi Kappa Delta sponsors a tournament for novices. This year the contestants were the University of North Carolina, Duke University, the University of Richmond, the University of South Carolina. Roanoke College and Mars Hill College, Pi Kappa Delta also arranged to bring to the campus for a single debate a team composed of the leading debaters from the British universities. The national organization sponsors a convention and tournament biennially. This past spring the group met at Kalamazoo College. Michigan. Pi Kappa Delta also had a biennial regional tournament. The officers of Pi Kappa Delta are Joe Mauney, president: Virgil Moorefield, vice-president; and Kay Arant, secretary.

PHYSICS DEPARTMENT

The Physics Department, in spite of limited facilities, has fully occupied the time of its students as well as its professors. The instructors are Dr. William E. Speas, who is head of the department, and Dr. T. J. Turner, an assistant professor of physics. Dr. Turner, a new addition this year to the college faculty, recently invented an apparatus for testing the tensile strength of metal. Dr. Speas, a known campus figure, has been here since 1924.

THE FIRST HOWLER -- 1903

When the year 1903 rolled around, sixty-nine years had elapsed since Wake Forest Institution was founded. During that time there had been no record kept of college life, except in the Student Magazine and the old Howler bulletin board, which was a monthly paper placed on a tree relating in a jocular way the interesting incidents of college life. Students gathered around this tree to read the How-LER, their outlet for campus gossip and activities. Need for an annual caused the new Howler to replace the tree bulletin board.

The first volume of the Howler was compiled by the Board of Editors and published in 1903. Only three other members of the student body, outside the Board of Editors, made contributions to the birth of our annual. It was published by the Euzelian and Philomathesian Literary Societies.

They collected everything of interest in and around the college, adding jokes, poems and short stories. Other interesting features included class write-ups, the College calendar, superlatives, a two-act play and the history of Wake Forest College. Stilted group pictures portrayed the classes, athletic organizations and literary societies. The book was small and pictures of the organizations few and far between, but the first frugal attempt was well rewarded as the Howler became an annual publication of Wake Forest College.

Since 1903 The Howler has gained much ground as it prospered with the school. The enrollment has more than doubled itself and something new has been added to campus life—coeds. Buildings have burned down and been built up again along with new building additions. A wide variety of subjects has been offered each year to increase the selection of courses and to give the students a more rounded education. Professors have come and gone, leaving the students with the necessary training and education to establish a place in the world for themselves.

Each year Wake Forest College becomes better known and more established as a national figure as the students and alumni represent their alma mater in various aspects of life. Many pages have been added to our yearbook as new activities have been brought to the campus. The editorial staff has increased many times until students from all phases of campus life now compile the facts of student life into the annual. The greatest trust between man and man sell pacon

ADMINISTRATION

Dr. Daniel Bunyan Bryan Dean of the College

Dr. Harold Wayland Tribble President of Wake Forest College

Presiding over Wake Forest College for the third year was Dr. Harold Tribble. This year proved to be a vigorous and active one for the President as he made many trips to Winston-Salem planning and working for the new school at Reynolda. Besides this, he also had numerous duties here and was always willing to be the gracious host any time the students or faculty desired. Dean of the College, Dr. D. B. Bryan, carried the weight of student problems on his shoulders. Students went to his office for advice about almost any problem and usually found a consoling and helpful dean. Dr. Bryan is a member of the Education faculty and has been here for thirty years. Helping to make ladies of Wake Forest coeds was the task of the intellectual and poised Dean of Women, Miss Lois Johnson. Girls found not only a counselor, but also a friend in Miss Johnson as she guided and directed the activities of the 300 coeds. She is adviser to Tassels, honorary leadership society for women, and has been an associate professor of French since coming here in 1912. Wake Forest students felt the rise of the tuition and general fee as they filed Copeland capably completed his first full year as Bursar. Copeland's hard-working assistant was Jim Cook. Also helping to control the financial status of the College were Mrs. Virginia W. Cocke and Mrs. Edith T. Earnshaw, the wife of the late Bursar, Elliott B. Earnshaw.

One of the busiest offices on campus and one in which almost every student's interest lies is the Registrar's Office. This office holds the key to the lock of graduation for all Wake Forest students. This year, as for the past 27 years. Mr. Grady S. Patterson was seen working diligently in the Registrar's Office. Mrs. Margaret R. Perry, wife of the history professor, Dr. Percival Perry, was assistant registrar. They were responsible for each student's records, hours, majors and minors, quality points and cuts.

Working behind the scenes and carrying out important jobs is what the administrative assistants did. Mrs. O'Brian lived with the girls in Bostwick, while Mrs. Overby guided the older coeds in Johnson. Mrs. Chandler served as assistant dean of women; Miss Godfrey was the dean's secretary; and Mrs. Drake was secretary to the President. Dr. Mackie headed the infirmary, and Tom Bost the News Bureau.

FRESHMAN ADVISORY COUNCIL

Helping freshmen and transfer students find a home at Wake Forest College was the purpose of the Orientation Committee this year. Twentysix upperclassmen and twenty-six faculty members returned to the campus early last fall in order to lead a well organized four day orientation program. New students were introduced to the College family and its traditions by the President of the College and various members of the faculty. The honor system and the numerous functioning organizations were explained in detail. Intelligence and ability tests were given, and professional interest group meetings were held. There were periods, too, for getting acquainted and socializing. The Baptist Student Union was host at an informal party the first night, and the Student Government gave a dance at the Community House the following night. Sunday afternoon the annual faculty reception was held at the home of the President. Joe Mauney and Professor J. G. Carroll headed the Committee which helped the new students feel they were truly a part of the College and its various functions.

Mastering one of the modern languages at Wake Forest is the requirement for membership in the Sigma Pi Alpha honorary fraternity. Miss Mary McFeeters, a new instructor in the French Department, is the adviser. At one of the first meetings last fall Miss McFeeters gave a highly interesting talk and showed color slides that she took in France. The national society met the third Thursday in every month, and programs concerning German, Spanish and French were presented. An impressive initiation ceremony was held in the Iall for fifteen new members, followed by a party in the Euzelian Society Hall. Presiding over Sigma Pi Alpha this year was Dana Gulley. Taking a well earned rest is mainly what Dr. Hubert Poteat has been doing this year. Doctors finally insisted that the outstanding nationally known Shriner slow down and rest. Dr. Poteat, nevertheless, headed the Latin Department, taught three classes and spoke for Kappa Alpha smokers and initiations. His philosophy and dynamic speaking ability amazed students as always, year after year.

GREEK FACULTY

One of the friendliest professors on the campus, Dr. Cronje B. Earp, is the head of the one-man Greek Department. Students of Greek found a man who knows his subject thoroughly and also how to teach it. Dr. Earp was faculty adviser to Eta Sigma Phi classical language fraternity, and adviser for the Pi Kappa Alpha frat.

ETA SIGMA PHI

Excelling in classical languages is what the members of Eta Sigma Phi have done in order to be initiated into the society. The students in the fraternity have maintained a high scholastic average in either Greek or Latin. The group met once a month, and programs were given which would foster interest in the classical languages. In the fall Dr. Cronje B. Earp, head of the Greek Department, read an enlightening paper on the influence of the Greeks on civilization. Dr. Daniels, a member of the Southeastern Baptist Seminary, presented an interesting talk at the November meeting on "Semantic Languages." President of the honorary fraternity this year was Richard C. Barnett. Charles A. Allen served as vice-president and planned programs. The secretary-treasurer was Mary Anne Williams, Dr. Earp and Dr. Hubert Poteat were advisers for the organization.

Who will be the next president—Stevenson or Eisenhower? This was the query of debate which was one of the highlights of the Euzelian Literary Society year. Altendance was so great that chairs had to be borrowed from the Phis. Another topic which drew campus-wide attention was Resolved, Wake Forest men should date Wake Forest coeds. Programs improved and membership increased. For the first time in two years, the Eus proved they were still alive by beating the Phis in the inter-society contests. Roger Cole presided over the speaking society first semester, and Wilfred Winstead took over the presidential gavel in the spring.

One of the most industrious organizations on the campus this year was the Woman's Government Association, to which every girl belonged. Not only did the WGA govern the actions of coeds, but it also helped promote pleasant relationships among the girls and provided them with social events. Leading the organization this year were president. Esther Ellen; vice-president, Colean Smith; secretary, Ann Roberts; treasurer, Barbara Geer; social standards chairman, Betty McAfee; and house presidents, Arameta Rhodes and Nancy Marshbanks. The council met each Monday afternoon to discuss problems of coeds and to issue "call-downs" when necessary. Besides the regular duties of the council, they initiated many projects, such as the "big and little sister" affairs, homecoming decorations contest, receptions for alumni, Sadie Hawkins Day, open houses at Christmas, after-exam teas, Friday night dances at Bob's College Inn and the Community House, a Valentine's Dance. Magnolia Ball, a talent show, May Court elections, the Community Chest drive and the March of Dimes Campaign.

TASSELS

"Women as Leaders" was the topic for the discussion lead by Mrs. Harriet Pressley, wellknown woman commentator from Raleigh, when she was invited to the campus this spring by Tassels. The forum was open to all coeds, and Mrs. Presslev explained woman's place as a leader in this modern world. A step was taken this year toward affiliation with the national society, Mortar Board, when the Baptist State Convention elected a woman, Mrs. J. Melville Broughton, Sr., to the Board of Trustees. Tassels was organized on the campus to recognize coeds who have proved themselves outstanding in campus life, character, scholarship, leadership and service. Only four per cent of the coeds are chosen each year. Only juniors and seniors are eligible for induction. Officers this year were president, Mary Lide; vicepresident, Billie Parrish; and secretarytreasurer, Libbie Lou Allen Stines. Libbie Lou was graduated at the end of first semester, and Cynthia Collins succeeded her. Miss Lois Johnson, Dean of Women, is group adviser, and Miss Marjorie Crisp of the Physical Education Department is an honorary member.

THE STUDENT COUNCIL

Several democratic moves were made in the Student Conneil this year. The main purpose of the Conneil was to receive, preter and try all charges of violations of the Constitution, laws, rules and customs of the Student Body. For the first time a detendant was allowed to hear the entire trial. If the detendant desired, the trial would be open to the entire student body. Lounie Williams, third year law student, was charman of the conneil, and Betty McView was secretary. The thirteen members were also responsible for investigating and passing on all matters affecting the good name of Wake Forest College and for conducting electrons.

The new Constitution of Wake Forest College Student Government went into full time action this year, and the top four student body officers assumed a new role of composing the executive council. Officers were president. Charles Barham; vice-president, Joe Mauney; secretary. Clara E. Francis; and treasurer. Jack Lewis. Branching from the executive council were the Student Council and the Student Legislature. The Student Legislature met every two weeks. and its two main duties were to pass bills and to suggest allocations for student activity funds. Joe Mauney, first year law student, was chosen chairman, and Sarah Williams, secretary. After freshman elections two members were added-Tom Hardin, freshman class president, and Ruffin Johnson, freshman representative. Many discussions were held in the Legislature on whether belonging to the National Student Association was worthwhile. Other problems the Legislature dealt with were changing the Christmas holidays, having a reading day before exams, improving house and ground conditions and installing benches on the campus.

In the spring they presented the Grand Championship Trophy to the team gathering the most points during the year. Additional trophies were awarded to winners in the individual sports of golf, tennis, badminton, table tennis, handball and horseshoes. Team trophies went to teams winning league championships in touch football, basketball. volleyball and softball. This year's trophy for football was won permanently by the Pikas after

Speechmaking is the order of the day once each year when the members of Phi Epsilon Kappa get together for their annual speech contest. They choose members of the faculty to act as judges and award a trophy for the best speech made. In the interest of supplying better officials, an officials' club was established, awarding a trophy at the end of the year to the most outstanding official, who was selected by the coaches of the various intramural teams. The chief aim, that of elevating the standards, ideals and ethics of those persons expecting to teach health, physical education and recreation, has been carried out this year by Roger Warren and the 11 members of the fraternity. Clinics in basketball and baseball are held every year for the physical education majors and Wake County high school coaches. Efforts to reimburse their treasury resulted in members' selling programs at every home basketball game. This year, the end of the spring term found them celebrating their fourth anniversary at the Founders' Day banquet.

COED INTRAMURALS

The step-child of W. R. A., coed inframurals, initiated five years ago, has grown to even greater proportions this year. Helen Green and Arameta Rhodes, intramural managers, directed the program. Competition between the two dormitories for the intramural plaque is keen, a factor which may account for the success it is enjoying. Along with dormitory competition the coeds are divided into four teams which contend for tournament championships in basketball, volleyball and softball. Individual sports such as archery, badminton, temnis, shuffleboard, horseshoes and table temnis are included to provide all types of recreation.

WHITE JACKETS

GIRLS sporting these white jackets around campus have earned at least 100 points in intramurals. They are, seated, Rhodes, Matthews, A. Brooks, Cabe, Butler; standing, Watson, McNeil, Lennon, Moore, Jordan, Burden, D. Brooks.

WOMAN'S RECREATION ASSOCIATION

Cutting out Blue Horses in the bookstore occupied part of the time for loyal members of W. R. A., who hope to win a bicycle to match the one carned last year in the notebook paper wrapper contest. But president Hilda Jordan managed to keep them busy with other activities including scavenger hunts, intramurals, parties and discussions of the rules and plays of sports. Since its initiation five years ago, the club, with Miss Dorothy Casey as adviser, has climaxed its program for the year by planning the theme for the Big Magnolia Festival.

WOMEN'S PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Four coeds, with the aid of Miss Marjoric Crisp, formed the Women's Physical Education Majors' Club in 1948. Now, president Barbara Saunders and the 22 members are directing their main efforts toward joining Delta Psi

Kappa, national honorary physical education fraternity. 1952-53 found them sponsoring an all-campus square dance with Phi Epsilon Kappa, selling apples at basketball games and joining in for sports days at various colleges.

MODERN DANCE, popular with the coeds, gives them a chance to do impressionistic and interpretive dancing. Betty McAfee, Arameta Rhodes and Sarah Williams give an example of the dancing done in these classes.

KING FOOTBALL

The two-platoon system was still in effect; Wake Forest had as its coach Tom Rogers for the second season. Although the players were excellent in quality, the quantity was lacking. Rogers was satisfied that his guards and ends were well settled, and his tackles and center looked good. The Deacs were going to have a brick wall up front, but the cement between the cracks was a bit loose. In the backfield Rogers could see a bevy of would-be stars and began scratching his head. There were no experienced quarterbacks, and the fullback slot was wide open. Men who were excellent on defense could not take the risk of being hurt on offense; so he had to use the two-platoon system here. As the season began, it was evident that manpower was to be the major headache, but the men who donned uniforms could be counted on to hold down their jobs well.

A REVIEW

Nobody could say Wake Forest did not have a good season on the gridiron. In a ten-game schedule, six of them within the Southern Conterence, the Black and Gold left the field the conquerors in five of them. all of which went into the win column of the potent loop standings. There were four defeats, but considering the opposition the Deacons were not condemned for losing to three intersectional rivals and the Conference champion. On one occasion the Deacs shared honors with their foe, since a tie contest was the verdict. Within the Big Four it looked as if the Deacons might be the victors for the second straight year, and the Southern Conference picture was equally bright. However, one game spoiled the hopes of the optimists and Wake had to be content with a tie for second in the loop and a clincher on the second spot in the State. Larry Spencer took top honors in the nation in the kick-off returns department, and all along the rugged season Joe Koch battled for the top punting slot nationally.

QUARTERBACK SONNY GEORGE goes through for a first down against William and Mary as Deacons win, 28-21.

BAYLOR

With revenge in their minds the 1952 edition of the Wake Forest football Deacons tangled with their Baptist cousins, the Baylor Bears. Lady Luck and a clock spelled doom for the Tar Heels, as a timely field goal sent the Rogersmen home on the short end of a 17-14 score. In the 92-degree weather, quarterback Sonny George connected with Jack Lewis in the end zone to spill first blood. Baylor tied the count, but George found the sneak to be effective and the Deacs led by seven. After a tie game, the Bears kicked a field goal in the last 30 seconds to take a heartbreaking decision in the opener.

WILLIAM AND MARY

The second game of the season proved to be the initial win for the stalwarts of Tom Rogers as the Baptists watched the clock to strike timely and take advantage of William and Mary, 28-21. Larry Spencer began his kickoff championship return against the Indians by racing 95 yards for one score, while Bruce Hillenbrand galloped 60 markers for another. By hitting end Jack Lewis with passes throughout the afternoon, the Deacs came back when the going got tough. Churm scored on a 15-yard end run, and George sneaked over for the final tally. The four George conversions were good.

BOSTON COLLEGE

A young but experienced Boston College team played the Wake Foresters to a 7-7 tie in Bowman Gray Stadium in Winston-Salem in what was an exculy matched fracas from the word "go." Although backed up in their own territory much of the night, the Deacs rallied in the second half to overcome a 7-0 deficit and tie the Eagles on a 22-yard jannt by Joe Koch. George tied with his placement. The night was calm, but the Deacons kept on the ground, taking advantage of numerous holes in the big Boston line. The game gave Wake Forest a 1-1-1 record before a filled, cheering stadium.

VILLANOVA

In their only northern trip of the half-gone season, the Deacs bowed to one of the East's mightiest football powerhouses, Villanova, at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, by a 20-0 score. Playing before northern alumni and a mediocre crowd in drizzling weather, the Baptists fought hard, looked good at times, but could not stand the varied power of the potent Wildeat offense. The Deacs were able to penetrate the Villanova territory on numerous occasions in the second half, but the drives soon were halted. Bill Churm and Joe Koch gave the Rebels their best offensive efforts to back up their lost cause.

CAROLINA

Turn about is fair play, thought quarterback George as he kicked a field goal in the last three minutes to give the Wakemen their third win over Carolina in as many years, 9-7. The game was a defensive battle with the half time score being 0-0. In the third quarter, Carolina scored first, scaring the Deacs into a strong defensive unit. Koch took over at quarterback and threw to Sonny George, who advanced the ball. George carried over for the score. His placement was blocked, and the Tar Heels led by one point. With the clock waning, George redeemed himself by kicking a field goal.

STATE

In the first home game of the season, Wake Forest fought and won the Wake County grid championship from N. C. State before a 10,000-fan homecoming crowd. Larry Spencer raced 32 yards for the first Wake score only six minutes after the opening kickoff. Four minutes later halfback Bruce Hillenbrand charged through the center of the line for the second tally, and for the second time in as many attempts, George converted. Lewis snagged a George pass in the end zone in the fourth stanza to end the Deacon scoring with 21 points tallied against the lone six for the Wolfpack of State.

TEXAS CHRISTIAN

The first half was even—the Deacs had scored once and so had Texas Christian. In the third period George booted a field goal to put the Deacs in the lead, 9-7. But TCU lived up to their publicity as they amassed 20 points in the final quarter to whip the invading Deacons, 27-9. Wake's score came on a pass from George to Ondilla. The game was played in the heat of Fort Worth, and the Deacs were hoping finally to get a win in the Lone Star State. The lack of reserves hurt as the Frogs took the situation in hand and capitalized on a bad finish.

DUKE

The battle of the year occurred in Groves Stadium when the Blue Devils twice found enough power to overcome the Deacs by a 14-7 score. Wake Forest could muster a scoring punch only in the final quarter for its lone tally. Duke was held on several scoring opportunities, but a blocked Wake kick gave them a heart-breaking advantage upon which they capitalized to win. The Deacs' Spencer was clearly the offensive star of the game as he gained 111 yards alone. After a 62-yard march Hillenbrand carried over for the Deacon score, but it was too late.

FURMAN

The Purple Hurricanes of Furman held the Deacon gridders to seven points in the first half of a Southern Conference game in Greenville. S. C., but the potent Baptists came roaring back in the second stanza to rout the hosts 28-0. On the opening second half kickoff, halfback Larry Spencer galloped 96 yards to reach pay dirt and set the Deacs in offensive motion. Quarter-back George opened up the air lanes and connected with Lewis for two tallies. The fourth score came when reserve fullback Nick Maravie plunged over from the one, George was true on all four placements, in his usual manner.

SOUTH CAROLINA

Everybody was getting into the act, for it was the last game of the season. The Deacs tangled with their Palmetto rival in Winston's Bowman Gray Stadium, and the outcome put the Deacs into the winning column for the season with a fine 39-11 victory. Scoring for Wake were Captain Jack Lewis on a 35-yard pass from quarterback Sonny George; halfback Larry Spencer on a reverse which covered 25 yards and on a run of 10 yards; halfback Hillenbrand on a lateral from end Eddie Stowers; fullback Pete Coker on a two-yard line plunge; and George on a quarterback sneak in a high scoring fracas.

SCHOOL SPIRIT

Pep rallies and parades, torches and banners, cheerleaders and the hand—all combined to keep school spirit high. Friday nights were reserved for raising the roof and marching through the main thoroughfare of Wake Forest's downtown metropolis. Every now and then, when strength was able to overcome bashfulness, one or two of the heroes would appear in front of the throng and tell the students how big, bad and rough the Deacons were going to be. They were as tough as they said, but they had every student behind them every week.

HOMECOMING

Homecoming proved to be more than a victory over the Wolfpack of North Carolina State in 1952. The decorations were carefully draped and placed into positions over the fraternity houses and dorms, with Lambda Chi Alpha placing first, Kappa Alpha second, and Theta Chi third in the fraternity division and the Johnson women topping the coed division.

Alumni had meetings in the cafeteria and looked over the "new" campus, changed many times since the days "when we were here." Besides parties, open houses and receptions over the campus and around the countryside, Ralph Flanagan assembled his musical aggregation together in Raleigh's Memorial Auditorium for a formal dance Saturday night which culminated a happy, but all too short social week end. Homecoming was a spectacular, joyous event.

BASKETBALL

Wake Forest's basketball team did the seemingly impossible during the upbill fight in the potent Southern Conference. Heralded as a weak team in the reserve department but with strong darkhorse possibilities, the Deacs, under Murray Greason and assistant coach Horace "Bones" McKinney, eased by the top title contenders, lashed out at the minor entries and swept a three-game tournament in William Neal Reynolds Coliseum in Raleigh to take their first Southern Conference basketball championship.

Few fans thought that Wake Forest's inexperienced bench could compare with the larger reserve strength pushed by other schools. Only Dickie Hemrie, Billy Lyles, Maurice George and Al DePorter had what was considered as enough know-how. Reserves Ray Lipstas, Bill Alheim, Jim DeVos, Tommy Howard, Graham Phillips and Tom Preston had played in previous years at Wake Forest, either on the varsity or the Jayvee team. Jack Williams, a former freshman standout several years back, returned to the fold and gained a forward slot position.

When the statisticians finally figured the team totals at the conclusion of the season, there was no doubt as to the miraculous supremacy of the Deacons. They had beaten N. C. State, holders of six consecutive conference titles, for the Southern Conference top honors by a score of 71-70. They had taken both Richmond and the University of Maryland in preliminary games in the tournament. In the annual Dixie Classic they trimmed high-ranking Pennsylvania. dropped to surprising Brigham Young and then gave Holy Cross the worst licking in the history of basketball at that institution. By virtue of their win in the tournament, Greason's first championship in his twenty years at Wake Forest, they gained a place in the District NCAA games, also played in Raleigh, and well represented their conference brothers.

For the season the Deacons won twenty-one and dropped only six, which included two tournaments. They topped the 90-mark six times and scored a total of 2.101 points. Sportswriters called them the "Iron Men" of basketball, for tarely did more than six men get into a game. The starting five of Hemric, Williams, Lyles, George and DePorter was aided by Lipstas, who was a demon any time he saw action. Freshman Lowell "Lefty" Davis and big Frank McRae proved to be valuable help along with the other reserves. Footballer Joe Koch joined the squad late in the year.

Greason had an able and popular assistant in McKinney. Formerly a star for N. C. State and Carolina, McKinney played professionally for the Washington Capitols. Although a student in the Southeastern Baptist Seminary, "Bones" spent his afternoons working with the Deacons and evenings hollering, sweating and jumping off and on the Wake Forest bench. Always a must with photographers, he proved to be one of the cogs in the Wake championship wheel. It was his religious guidance, his constant interest and his sincerity as well as his technical cage ability and human interest that made him a most valuable asset to the Deacs during their victorious season.

Many honors came from the year's hard work. Coach Greason was named Coach of the Year in the Southern Conference by a landslide. Dickie Henric and Jack Williams solidly held onto the number two positions nationally as a one-two scoring punch. At the close of the season Hemric had an average of 25.1, and Williams followed with a 21.0 average. Hemric was selected to the first team All-Tournament, and Williams and Lyles made the second five. Both made the Greenshoro Daily News All-State selection, and Hemric made a starting berth on the All-Conference mythical squad.

Lyles was tabbed as the hustlingest guard in the division, and DePorter heralded as the most unsung hero of the season on any team. Lipstas proved to be a miracle man on numerous occasions, rebounding and hitting when they really counted. Maurice George was deadly from the corner and played steady, cool hall throughout the rugged schedule. Reserve Davis hit the field goal that heat GW in an overtime, and Lipstas repeated the feat against W. & M.

At the end of the season Coach Greason stated calmly that in his score of years at Baptist Hollow this was undoubtedly the best team he had had. Every victory was considered a team win by the men and the coaches. It was a great season for Wake Forest's basketball team, the greatest in the history of the cage sport.

BASEBALL

Coach Taylor Sanford began his third year at the reins of the Wake Forest baseball squad with only a handful of lettermen, but more than seventy-five hopefuls. Graduation and the professional ranks took a heavy toll from the preceding season's team, but what Sanford lacked in veterans was made up in spirit. Returning from the '52 edition were first-baseman Hugh "Buddy" Smith, outfielder Junie Floyd, infielder Oscar Signore, shortstop Dickie Harris, catcher Jack Liptak, utility man Tommy Howard, reserve outfielder Ben Tatum, pitcher Don Woodlief, outfielders Jack Rogers and Ralph Brown, and several graduates of the jayvee squad. Positions on the varsity roster were secret until the first game. Freshmen vied for bonors along with the lettermen, many assuming positions of importance on the diamond. Assisting Sanford were "Red" Cochran and Frank Wehner, former Deacon outfielder but now a member of the New York Yankee farm system. of pitching experience in training the hurlers in pre-season workouts. Facing the usual Southern Conference opposition was a major problem since both N. C. State and Duke were power-laden. The Deacons scheduled several professional and semi-pro teams along with a few traveling teams from above the Mason-Dixon line. Service teams also saw action against the former NCAA District champs. "Silent Sam," the mechanical pitching machine, again proved to be a major factor in the offensive prowess of the Deacon batsmen as he hurled steadily against them during practice.

TENNIS

For the first time since 1949 the Deacons were represented on the courts as well as on other fields of athletic endeavor. Interest on the campus aroused instrumental persons into starting the tennis ball rolling, and the season blossomed into one of greater success than pre-season dope had revealed. Under the supervision and advisership of Dr. Fred West, former coach of the Texas Christian University squad, the aspirants gained berths on the team by virtue of wins in a campus-wide tournament. Dr. West, first man of the strong Raleigh entry in eastern North Carolina tennis circles, tutored the men in afternoon drills held on the local courts. Through elimination the top eight men landing positions on the squad were Will Allred, Gene Correll, Clay Daughtridge, Jasper Memory, Jr., Bill Patterson, Buck Rish, Bill Bogers and Graham Weathers. Several others were held in readiness in case of substitutions at the last moment. The team played not only members of the Southern Conference but had matches with a sprinkling of teams from northern colleges and several independent teams.

GOLF

Lack of having intercollegiate experience seemed to be the greatest worry to the 1953 Deacon links squad, but the pre-season drills erased such a problem early. With a squad of only a few returning veterans and a handful of freshmen and sophomores the Wake Forest golf team continued traditions by being one of the top such units in the Southern Conference. The Demons lost their top two men due to the eligibility rule; however, new aspirants more than capably filled their shoes. Although the team had no permanent coach, Athletic Director Jim Weaver held the reins for matches. During practice sessions former number one man Dick Tiddy tutored the men in fundamentals of the game. Running in the top positions on the fairways were Phil Wiechman, a freshman; Sandy Burton, sophomore returnee; Allan Birmingham, sophomore veteran; Bobby Ramsey, senior letterman; Charlie Strack, sophomore chipping expert; and freshmen Henry Kerfoot, Joe Turner and Benny Wrenn. As usual the Deacs were entered in the Southern Conference and the Southern Intercollegiate Tournament.

INTER-FRATERNITY COUNCIL

Establishing co-operation and harmonious relationships between Wake Forest's nine social fraternities and the College is the main purpose of the Inter-Fraternity Council. Under the guidance of President Louten Britt the council has had an extremely busy year. Outstanding among its achievements was the establishment of the Thurman D. Kitchin Scholarship to be awarded annually to one male freshman. This scholarship, named in honor of the beloved former Wake Forest College President, will give to the recipient one year's tuition. Other activities of the council have been supervising rushing, governing fraternity operations and sponsoring three big dances. Homecoming Dance, with Ralph Flanagan furnishing the music, was followed by the Christmas Dance with The Southerners. Highlighting the IFC social year were Final Dances in May, featuring Tex Beneke and Harry James. Along with President Britt mainstays were vice-president, Robert Ayers; secretary. On Homecoming day the many visiting alumni were honored at a luncheon held at the American Legion Home. A basketball game in November between the pledges and members resulted in the losing members setting the triumphant pledges up to a stag party at the chapter house. Climaxing a number of chapter room parties held throughout the second semester was the annual "Apache" party which was held in April. Foremost among the accomplishments of the year was the setting up of a compulsory study hall for pledges. Prominent Alpha Sigs on the campus were Brightie White, ODK and President of the Baptist Student Union, and Harry Bryant, President of International Relations Club. Culminating the year was a party held for the graduating seniors.

KAPPA ALPHA

From the time the new year first picked its way out of its shell. Tau Chapter of Kappa Alpha has been on hand to spot the way with gay parties and lasting achievements. Adding to their already impressive trophy case, the rebels captured the 1.F.C. scholarship cup: the Poteat Award, recognizing Tau as the leading Kappa Alpha chapter in the state; and second place in the 1.F.C. Homecoming decoration contest. More trophies were added as the Crimson and Gold athletic teams continued to rank as powers in the campus intramural program. During the fall, "Buddy" Smith and "Red" Pope were initiated into ODK, and the Chapter room was redecorated into what is now known as the "Green Room." Homecoming, the Convivium and Finals headed a long list of social events held throughout the year. Climaxing the year was the Old South Ball, complete with beards, mustaches, costumes, rebel yells, "Dixie," the Stars and Bars, parades and Southern belles. Bidding a fond farewell to the "Grand Ole Gang," the senior stag party was a great, but rather damp success for the entire group.

September, nineteen fifty-two, rolled around, and with it came another successful year for Delta Omega Chapter. They began the year with the omnipotent ery, "Come on up and see the boys," When the dust cleared, they had pledged twenty-five of Wake Forest's outstanding male matriculates. Homecoming came soon and found the members, pledges and alumni enjoying the game, barbeene supper and the dance. Time moved on, carrying brothers into various campus activities. Scholars, athletes and "wheels" alike all helped to turn the cogs of Baptist Hollow. The week end before Christmas was one of the highlights of the year as the brothers enjoyed a gypsy party, the dance and a party for underprivileged children. The month of February brought the annual district conclave at Chapel Hill. Week-end parties and intramural interests interspersed throughout the year and culminated by the Star and Crescent Ball in the spring and Finals in May helped to brighten the Kappa Sigs' blue thoughts of examinations, graduation and "that ever threatening draft." which seems to plague graduates.

Returning to college early, the Lambda Chis pitched in to repaint the inside of their house, as well as to convert one of their spare rooms into a game room. Other achievements of the year were the winning of first place in the Inter-Fraternity Council Homecoming decoration contest, sending a delegate to the National Convention in New York City and distributing toys at Christmas to underprivileged Negro children at the State Hospital in Goldsboro. In an Old Gold and Black feature story they were acclaimed to be "Good Neighbors" by many of the nearby house owners on No. Main Street.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

Among the more noted members represented in campus activities were Ed Christman, ODK and President of the Bar Association; Wade Gallant, member of Phi Beta Kappa; and Bill Hedrick, President of the Junior Class. A stag party the first week of school started the social ball rolling. After the Homecoming game with State College the chapter held a buffet luncheon for over two hundred alumni. In early November a stag party was held at Upchurch's. A Thanksgiving chapter dinner, with all the trimmings, was followed by a Christmas party, complete with a real Santa Claus, just before the holidays. Long to be remembered was the annual White Rose Ball in March. Climaxing the social events was the Inter Zeta Dance held in Durham in April followed by 'Finals' in May.

The I.F.C. was led by Louten Britt, and A.P.O., by Bradley Curry. Football season was very profitable for the Pikas, having resulted in their winning the fraternity and campus championship for the third straight year, thereby gaining permanent possession of the prized trophy.

Leading the Ivaternities in the number of pledges acquired, the Pikas were very proud of their twenty-five pledges. Athletics, studies and other extracurricular activities were put aside in November for the big Homecoming week end, which started with a costume party at the Saddle Club in Durham. Following the game on Saturday afternoon, an open house for alumni was held at the chapter house in Simmons Dorm. The week preceding Christmas found the Pikas very busy in many activities which were concluded on the night before the holidays with a Christmas party in the chapter room. January brought exams, which were followed by "beginning again" in February. Throughout the spring various social affairs both on and off the campus occupied the Pikas.

For thirty-five Wake Forest males a television set, a new game room and a newly painted hovel on South Main Street all spelled home. This home was the scene of two open houses for the coeds during the first two months of school. Then rushing, which ended in mid-October, found twenty-two new men wearing the Norman Shield. Homecoming eve found the Sigs enjoying a Halloween costume party, followed on Homecoming day with an open house for the alumni. Consul Bob Loftis' dropping school in October because of sickness was a great loss to both the chapter and the campus. The fourth anniversary of Delta Nu chapter was celebrated on November 15 with a party with the Sigs from Duke. A barbecue supper the night before the Christmas holidays concluded the social activities for the first semester. The chapter athletic team entered all intramurals, taking second place in the football tournament. The social activities of the second semester included a pledge-brother party and several other parties which were highlighted by the "Sweetheart Ball" and the "Big Four" dance in Durham.

The activities of the fall semester of the 1952 term began for the members of North Carolina Zeta chapter with the pledging of thirty-three new men, followed by initiation which brought the roster up to forty-five members. Also included among the year's activities was the presentation of a trophy to the most outstanding Wake Forest football player of the year and the repainting of the chapter dining hall, the oldest fraternity dining room on the campus. The Sig Ep intramural football team, led by Tommy Cole, finished third in the fraternity intramural football league, first in volleyball.

Foremost among the social events of the fall semester was a masquerade party held at Upchurch's cabin the Friday night before Homecoming, followed on Homecoming Day with a buffet luncheon for a large number of alumni. Just before the Christmas holidays the Sig Eps held their annual Christmas party, after which they serenaded the Wake Forest, St. Mary's, Peace and Meredith coeds. Bringing the year of long to be remembered events to a close was the Sig Ep Ball which was held in Raleigh in April.

The 1952-53 college year was frequented with many social events for Alpha Nu of Sigma Pi. To get the social ball rolling the first week end of school was begun with a chapter house party, followed by two smokers and a "Cafe" style party in mid-October. The first section of fraternity row was the scene of a Halloween costume party the night before Homecoming and a buffet luncheon for the many visiting alumni on Homecoming day. A newly acquired piano arrived just in time for a Christmas party the night before the holidays. Among the achievements of the year was a Christmas party for thirty-three underprivileged children at the Masonic Orphanage at Oxford. Supporting the polio drive in January, the fraternity sponsored a variety show with the Pika hillbilly band and a magician imported from Raleigh. A weiner toast at the "rocks" was one of several stag parties staged during the spring semester. With thoughts of March and the Virginia Dare Balltoom the brothers planned their annual Orchid Ball; then came May and "Finals Dances," closely followed by those graduation blues.

RELIGIOUS ED. CLUB

The Religious Education Club is composed of students interested in problems encountered in church work. The club, headed by Buck Taylor, had a profitable year and gained a clearer and better understanding of church life and church related work. Programs included talks by Miss Leonard, demonstration projects illustrating model programs, guest speakers and discussion groups. Featured in disensions were such subjects as counseling, duties of religious education directors, vacation church schools and other topics related to aspects of church life.

CHRISTIAN SERVICE

Headed by Jean Poston, the Christian Service Group was just what the name implies—an organization whose primary aim is Christian service to the campus and community. Their chief concern this year was the local Negro community. Cottage prayer meetings were held by the group, and as a special project they sponsored a lunch fund for needy children in the local Negro school. The highlight of campus activities sponsored by the Christian Service Group was the traditional night of Christmas caroling. The group also sponsored early morning watch services for the spiritual guidance of all students who wished to attend.

STUDENT VOLS.

The Student Volunteer Group is an organization to educate students concerning world missions and to enlist them for service with the mission groups of churches. Last year the society became affiliated with the National Student Volunteers, and this year the National Secretary worked with them in regard to individual preparation as well as the training of the entire club. Community missions, services in nearby churches, co-operation in religious enterprises and a spring retreat for mission students from other colleges of this vicinity constituted the group's activities for the year.

Delta Kappa Alpha is an honorary fraternity which seeks for membership those ministerial students who have excelled scholastically and who have taken an active part in campus religious activities. The honoree must be a member of either the junior or senior class and must have demonstrated the desired qualities of superior ministerial students. Under the guidance of their adviser, Dr. George Griffin, and their president. Charles Allen, the group gained much from the practical, informative programs given during the year. Many of these programs featured guest speakers; among them were Dr. Olin Binkley of the Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary and Dr. A. C. Reid, head of the Psychology Department. Other officers for the year were Joe Strother, vice-president, and Joe Price, secretary.

CULLOM MINISTERIAL CONFERENCE

The overall program plan of the Cullom Ministerial Conference was designed to help members find answers to problems that confront a minister. Programs of a practical nature included discussions and studies of ethics, sermon construction and the minister's home. In addition the members enjoyed many inspirational programs given by guest speakers. Led by R. F. Smith, the conference joined with the B.S.U. to form an Extension Workshop, which enabled both organizations to get a foretaste of their future work through trips to nearby churches. In their less serious moments the members and their dates enjoyed the "Prophets' Frolic,"

YOUNG WOMAN'S AUXILIARY

The Young Woman's Auxiliary, a campus-wide religious organization for coeds, had as its prime objective the advancement of the mission program; thus their programs and work centered around foreign and home missions study. The Y.W.A. held a group meeting once each month at which special speakers were often featured. These monthly meetings were supplemented by smaller circle meetings in the dormitories. The daily Y.W.A. meetings were in the form of "Taps," a nightly quiet period of devotion and worship. In these the girls on each floor of a dormitory met after closing hour in the room of one girl and were led in a few minutes of quiet meditation. The Young Woman's Auxiliary sponsored a number of community-wide projects during the year. The first of these was the baskets of food provided for needy families at Thanksgiving. Throughout the year members carried on visitations on the campus and in the community. They also sponsored a lunch fund for two needy students at the white school. The members had opportunities to become better acquainted at several pajama parties in the dormitories and at a tea given by their sponsor, Mrs. George Griffin.

WESTMINSTER FELLOWSHIP

As the Training Union is to the Baptist students, so is the Westminster Fellowship to Methodist and Presbyterian students on campus. During their Sunday night programs, members participated in worship services, gaining both the inspirational benefit and the experience of planning and participating in such programs. In addition to these student programs several outstanding speakers were guests of the fellowship this year. In co-operation with other religious organizations the fellowship had a representative on the B.S.U. Council. Social life was not neglected, for the members and their guests had several parties. As a series of extension projects, the Westminster Fellowship sent deputation teams to other colleges.

CANTERBURY CLUB

Although smaller than any other denominational group on the campus, the Episcopal students this year reactivated the Canterbury Club, their organization for religious activities. Meeting each Sunday evening, the members gained much from the activities and fellowship of the group. Reverend Paul Latta, rector of the Louisburg parish, served as adviser and inspirational leader for the Canterbury Club throughout the year. Marylou Johnson, social chairman, planned several parties which were enjoyed by the members and their dates. Officers for the year were Jimmy Zrakas, president; Harry Zrakas, vice-president; Lou Newsome, secretary; Mary Ann Dunn, treasurer; and Henry Kerfoot, program chairman.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

Sunday School began unofficially each Sabbath morning with coffee and doughnuts in the "rec" room. After this brief breakfast and fellowship period the students proceeded to the Little Chapel for general inspirational and worship programs for the entire Sunday School. These programs were planned and presented each week by some individual or one of the Sunday School classes. The Sunday School lessons were presented in six smaller classes taught by faculty members: Professor A. L. Aycock, Dr. A. C. Reid, Mrs. J. B. Hipps, Professor David Smiley, Professor William Soule and Dr. Edwin G. Wilson. Each class elected its own officers and, in the order named above, chose the following presidents: Glenn Wright, William Everhart, Jean Short, Lionel Cornell, Isabel Quattlebaum and Pat Murphy. In these classes students discussed everyday experiences and problems in addition to the regular lesson texts. The Sunday School, through the co-operation of the local Baptist Church, the teachers and the officers, sought to present practical and workable ideas to meet the needs of the students. In the Sunday School a person could choose the teacher and the class with which he felt be could best find fellowship and learn to live his college life to its greatest spiritual advantage. Throughout the year the various groups planned and enjoyed parties, weiner roasts and picnies at Rock Springs.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASSES are filled to capacity as the students find them a wholesome part of their religious activities. The bell tells them it is time for coffee and doughnuts in the "rec" room, after which the Sunday School lesson is heard.

ALICE REAVIS has charge of the program which is presented at General Assembly as the different unions meet for the opening exercises at a Sunday evening service of the Wake Forest College Baptist Training Union in the Little Chapel.

TRAINING UNION

An organization for the training of students for growth in religious experiences, the Training Union is thus a valuable asset to the religious life of the campus. On Sunday evenings before church services students had an opportunity to attend the joint opening assembly in the Little Chapel, then to join with the particular union. or study group, of their choice for educational and inspirational discussions. Here the students learned from others and shared ideas and attitudes about religion and life. Participating members learned program planning and selfexpression in presenting the discussion topics each week. In addition to the practical aspects of the programs those attending gained much in spiritual benefit from the serious, worshipful atmosphere of the meetings. Between their regular Sunday night meetings members looked forward to the very enjoyable socials of the Union such as weiner roasts, picnics and skating parties. Dot Raiford, director of the Training Union, received much help and co-operation from presidents and officers of the various unions in carrying out her plans for a program of enlistment and expansion within the Training Union. The union is under the anspices of the B.S.U. and the Wake Forest Baptist Church, and it co-operated in every way possible to further campus religious activities.

THE GLEE CLUB

"The voices from the chapel balcony" is the way the glee club is thought of by guest Chapel speakers and the majority of students. Dr. Robinson, their director, may think of them as a co-operative, if somewhat nerve-shattering, group. To the Raleigh Civic Music Association they are the welcome helpers in the Raleigh presentation of Handel's "Messiah." To townspeople and outsiders they are the group who perform "The Messiah" so beautifully each December. To the members themselves, glee club means late afternoon rehearsals each Tuesday and Thursday, musical Chapel programs and prayer responses originating in the Chapel balcony and pleasure for both performers and audience.

MALE QUARTET

No wonder membership in the male quartet is an honor for any male member of the College choir. If you wonder why, just take a look at their activities for the year. These "four men of music" followed the traditions of former years by singing really good, enjoyable music and by delighting audiences everywhere they went. Whether performing for local civic clubs. singing in churches and schools in nearby towns, appearing on chapel programs here or singing as a feature group with the choir, the time and circumstances were of no consequence.

THE MALE QUARTET, mainstay of the College choir, includes Jimmy Brisson, 1st tenor; Glenn Watson, 2nd tenor; Wallace Shearon, bass; Carlton Cox, baritone.

WAKE FOREST COLLEGE CHOIR

During the past several years the choir has come to be thought of as the musical goodwill group of the College. Traveling throughout North Carolina and neighboring states, singing for schools, civic groups and Baptist churches, the choir represented the College in a very delightful way. This select group of thirty-nine voices chosen from the glee club, in addition to making the sixth annual spring tour, also sang in nearby churches on Sunday nights throughout the spring. One of the most important invitations the choir has had came this year when they were asked to sing at two sessions of the Baptist State Convention in Winston-Salem. At the Magnolia Festival in May the choir joined with the glee club, the band and the symphony in presenting the annual concert. Also, as is the tradition, the choir provided the music for the Baccalaureate service during the annual graduation exercises.

INSTRUCTOR BILL PARHAM directs Ketchie, Binkley, Neal, Snyder, Yoder, and Boyles in Little Symphony.

LITTLE SYMPHONY

Smallest of the Wake Forest College musical organizations, the Little Symphony nevertheless worked hard this year to become a better and a better-known campus group. The glee club's annual presentation of Handel's "Messiah" in December offered the symphony an opportunity for its first public appearance of the year. Directed by Professor William Parham, this musical group played the Overture to the "Messiah." They made several other appearances during the year, including a chapel program and the Magnolia Festival concert. Its president for this year was Fred Cleghorn, Jr.

THE BAND

Football season at Wake Forest always begins the appearances of the College marching band. Led by the two drum majors and six highstepping majorettes, the band put on fancy halftime performances at Wake Forest contests both at home and away. "The best band in years," students and visitors said and attributed much of the band's improvement to new and better routines, greater interest among band members and a spirit of co-operation with their new director, Bill Parham. After Thanksgiving the band made a changeover from a marching band to a concert group. Their first appearance as such was in a chapel program on December 3, given as a preview to their annual Christmas concert. Other performances were given throughout the spring, climaxed by the traditional concert given in conjunction with the glee club and the V Cappella choir during the Magnolia Festival during the week, May 3-9.

BUSINESS FACULTY

The School of Business Administration, the youngest department on the campus, continued to expand during the year. Headed by Dr. Gaines Rogers for the fourth year, the school added Professor Kenneth Cox and Mrs. C. C. Pearson to the faculty. Returning as faculty members were Professor William Durham, Professor Clyde H. Farnsworth, Dr. Dwight L. Gentry and Professor Delmar P. Hylton.

ALPHA KAPPA PSI

Gamma Delta Chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi, national professional fraternity for business administration majors, was guided this year by Leonard "Skeets" Paletta, president, and Dr. Dwight Gentry, deputy councilor. Alpha Kappa Psi was organized in an effort to bring the business student into contact with the problems and questions with which he will be faced in the modern business world. The chapter sent Joe Dickens to the Mid-East District Conference in Washington, D. C., where he spoke on pledge training, Mr.

Walter Lowe of National Headquarters visited the chapter during the year. A highlight was the meeting held in conjunction with Delta Sigma Pi, when Mr. Earl Bunting, Managing Director of the National Association of Manufeaturing outstanding speakers, forums, personnel counseling, industrial movies and business tours. This year the fraternity conducted tours to leading firms in accounting, finance, manufacturing and marketing. To encourage scholarship Delta Sigma Pi each year awards a key to the top male student in the senior class of the School of Business Administration. A complete fraternity with social functions, Delta Sigma Pi has expanded since its inauguration in 1907 at New York University to a total of 75 chapters in recognized colleges. Officers for the year were Julius Pinkston, president; Russel Gentry, senior vicepresident; Ken Weathers, vice-president; Bill Morgan, secretary; Ramon Hoots, treasurer,

THE COLLEGE THEATER

Since 1944 the College Theater has been entertaining Wake Forest andiences by producing well-known plays. During the 1952-53 school year the Wake Forest community applanded the Theater group as it successfully completed three major productions. Under the faculty supervision of Prof. Clyde McElroy the organization was led first semester by Bob Swain, president; John Bleecker, vice-president; and Ellene Holbrook, secretary. Carrying on theater work the second semester were Norm Larson, Bob Swain and Cynthia Collins. Business manager was Don Freeman, Meetings wereheld bi-weckly and were highlighted by discussion, guest speakers and student programs.

The first Theater production came in November, when the group successfully produced "Gramercy Ghost." Allene Nash gave a remarkably capable performance as she made her initial Wake Forest appearance. The second major production came in March, when a cast of twenty-five led by Pat Banks produced "Family Portrait," a well received religious drama. As its final major production, the Theater chose the Shakespearean comedy, "Taming of the Shrew," given during the first week of May, in conjunction with the Festival.

Additions to the year's major productions were several student-directed one-act plays. One of the most outstanding was "Box and Cox," a farce directed by Pat Banks. In its cast were Jim Tribble, Tom Mezger and Eleanor Geer. In the spring as a project of the College Play-Production Class, taught by Professor McElroy, four students directed one-act plays presented in the Theater room of the Alumni Building.

Responsible for much of the year's success of the College Theater was the entire College Theater staff, composed of committees on publicity, make-up, properties, costumes, sets, lighting and special effects. Working with these committees were Norm Larson, Byrd Barnette, Virginia Cocke, Guy Revelle, Hilda Jordan, John Bleecker, Bob Swain, Val Jones, John Otto Brock, Allene Nash and Gynthia Collins.

PARKER BURNETT and Nancy Willard, portrayed by Norman White and Allene Nash, stare in fright as they see Nathaniel (Bill Satterwhite) and his two other ghost friends, Vic Kirkman and Jim DeVos, in a scene from "Gramercy Ghost."

"GRAMERCY GHOST"

Making its 1952-'53 debut, the College Theater presented "Gramercy Ghost," a three-act comedy, on the twelfth and thirteenth of November. This was the first of a number of productions presented in the College Chapel. Prof. Clyde McElroy, adviser to the College Theater, directed the production. Appearing before a Wake Forest audience for the first time was Allene Nash, a sophomore, as Nancy Willard, a young woman who inherited a ghost from the Revolutionary War. In other leading roles were Norman White as Parker Burnett, Miss Willard's fiancé; Bill Satterwhite as Nathaniel, the ghost from the war; and Allyn Gibson as Charley Stewart, a young reporter. Others in the cast were Pat Banks, Margaret Wilson, Jack Isert, John DeVos, Vic Kirkman, Cynthia Collins, Glenda Johnson and Gene Jardine. NORMAN WHITE receives an assist from Allene Nash backstage during "Gramercy Ghost" production.

"FAMILY PORTRAIT"

The College Theater chose "Family Portrait." a religious drama by Lenore Coffee and William Joyce Cowen, as its winter production. This drama, which called for one of the largest casts used by the College Theater in several semesters, presented a simple, reverent picture of the family of Christ elaborated in the terms of an ordinary family which acts and speaks as people of today. This Biblical play, which was presented the third and fourth of March, encompassed the last three years of Christ's life. Beginning in Nazareth, the production moves to Capernaum, Jerusalem and Nazareth.

Leading the cast of twenty-five was Pat Banks, a veteran College Theater member, as Mary, a sweet and understanding woman. Professor Clyde McElroy's able direction helped make the production a success. Outstanding in the role of Daniel, the grandson of Mary was Arthur Drake, son of Professor and Mrs. Justus Drake. Others having leading roles included Coy Carpenter as Joseph, an energetic "go-getter"; Hilda Maulden as Reba, a handsome girl inclined to take everything seriously; Robert Jordan as Judah, a boy of seventeen; and Harold Wilkinson as James, the eldest, Receiving favorable comments were Ina Mae Benner as Selima, Anne Lide as Esther, Jim Dunn as a fisherman, Isabel Quattlebaum as Anna, Georgia McNemar as Beulah, Lutrelle Cliver as a woman, Jean Poston as Hepzibah, John Long as Joshua, Glenn Holt as Leba and Lionel Cornell as Simon. Others having parts were Charles McDowell as Nathan, Tony Wrenn as Hadrian, James Taylor as Mathias, Tony Gurganus as Eben, Bob Pratt as Mendel, Vic Kirkman as a shepherd and Neta Lee as Naomi.

Veterans were outstanding: Margaret Wilson as Mary Cleopas, "Red" Pope as Judas, Jim Tribble as Rabbi Samuel, Allene Nash as Mary of Magdala, Allyn Gibson as Daniel and Don Freeman as Amos. Bob Swain was set director and John Bleecker, stage manager.

"FAMILY PORTRAIT" Cast. First row, Brock, Larson, Bleecker, Prof. McElroy; second row, Gurganus, McNemar, Kirkman P, Wilson, Satterwbite, Lentz, Benner, Tribble, Pratt. "THE SHREW"

Highlighting the College Theater year was the production of the Shakespearean comedy, "The Taming of the Shrew." Under the direction of Prof. Clyde McElroy the comedy was presented during the Magnolia Festival. The sets were designed by Prof. Charles Allen, aided by John Bleecker and Norm Larson. This play involved the taming of Katharine, a beautiful girl with a violent temper—spoiled by her father's weakness and the favor shown her gentler sister, Bianea. At the opening of the play Katharine is grieving because she is to be without a husband while her sister is to have one. Katharine wants to be married, but men tremble before her. Petruchio, a rich gentleman from Verona, is the kind of man who joys in an untamed spirit, and he is charmed by shrewish Kate.

NETA LEE, a senior and College Theater veteran, finds a few moments of quietness to prepare that English lesson for the students in her practice leaching elass while waiting for lines in "Taming of the Shrew."

ALPHA PSI OMEGA

Led by Bob Swain, the Theta Omega cast of Alpha Psi Omega continued to promote dramatics of high quality during the year. With the purpose of recognizing outstanding individual contributions to the field of dramatics, a relatively small group reorganized and initiated new members during second semester. Membership to Alpha Psi Omega is based on a rigid point system. For entrance into the fraternity a student must have participated in all phases of dramatic work, including acting, costuming, stage and technical work, business and publicity, properties, make-up and directing. It was with the support of this group that such outstanding dramatic productions as "Othello," "Macbeth," "Romeo and Juliet," "The Lady's Not for Burning," and "Winterset" have been enjoyed on the campus.

MEMBERS of Alpha Psi Omega, honorary theatrical fraternity, are, sitting, Pat Banks, Ellen Barnes, Eleanor Geer: standing, John Bleecker, Harold Powell, Norm Larson, Absent when picture was made, Bob Swain.

FROSH. The name stuck like the red mud on our Sunday shoes. Ten minutes from the Johnson Building across the campus to get dressed for gym class? Impossible! After the first week we realized that we had to attend chapel three times a week: that there were those unfortunates who had eight o'clock classes; and that freshman girls couldn't date except Friday. Saturday and Sunday nights. The orientation program soon made us feel as if we belonged here, and though this college life was new, we soon found ourselves singing "Oh, Here's to Wake Forest" with as much feeling as the seniors. The boys enjoyed a midnight cup of coffee at Shorty's, and the girls began to wish the dorm doors were not locked.

SOPHOMORES

It has been said the "strangest animals in the world are college sophomores," but if this statement is generally true, it fails to be so at Wake Forest, for our sophomores are "regular." Sophomores are, however, unique; for this second year of college life constitutes a period like no other in one's career. It is a time of dreaming, of planning, of preparing and of deciding. For many it is a turning point when vocations and ambitions are decided upon and when ideas and ideals are heard, thought over and accepted or rejected. It is a crucial, important phase of one's life. We can all be justly proud of this, our sophomore class, for it is they who may well be campus leaders next year and Wake Forest's graduated representatives the following June.

IN SADIE HAWKINS DAY celebration Dogpatch citizens parade through the grand march before judges selecting the most appropriately dressed couple.

One Hundred Fifty-eight

An outstanding event in every coed's school year is a certain day in November—Sadie Hawkins' Day. This occasion, created and fostered in Dogpatch, is annually celebrated at Wake Forest by footraces, Marryin' Sam weddings and a triumphant square dance, the winners bringing their catches. Sadie Hawkins' Day is one of the noblest examples of our belief in equal opportunities for both sexes. The girls, as always, exhibited their whole-hearted approval of our American way of life.

"FRAMEUP!" yelled Bill Johnson after a hit and miss at guinea pig Babe Narr at the Alpha Sigma Phi booth.

1952 HOWLER—ALL-AMERICAN

An All-American rating is hard to achieve, whether it be in athletics or publications. In 1952 the Howler earned, for the third time in its history, the title All-American, when it was awarded one of the five top ratings in its class in the United States. Edited by Fred Upchurch, the 1952 Howler was given its national rating on a competitive basis with yearbooks from schools of the same size as Wake Forest, 1,000-2,000 students.

The theme created a Life-like atmosphere through general lay-out of captions and features, which were, according to the judges, both amusing and informative. The end sheets, small scale models of the Winston-Salem Wake Forest College to be, illustrated in the beginning and at the end, the originality and planning that prevailed throughout the entire book.

Photography may have been a problem at times, but the quality of the finished product as well as the selection of the subjects made the 1952 Howler one to be remembered for years to come. Silhouettes portraved effects of fascination, solemnity and majesty. The highlight of 1951-52 was the groundbreaking ceremony for the new Wake Forest in Winston-Salem, with the President of the United States speaking, A pictorial record of this event in the '52 annual preserved, for future generations, a glimpse of vast crowds and important dignitaries attending the significant occasion.

The Athletic section occupied a predominant position in the All-American. Pictures which accompanied the colorful copy reviewed a successful season in sports, intramurals and physical education. The humorous cartoons of Bobby Burns added spice to the seldom read advertising section. Amusing and typical, they depicted some of the familiar incidents peculiar to the campus and classes. A highlight was the division pages with their spicy copy and typical pictures.

Wake Forest has had her share of All-Americans on the athletic field; occasionally she has had a top ranking member from "Pub Row." In 1952, however, attention was focused, not on All-Americans, but on the growth of the College, So, for the hard-working staff of the 1952 Howler it was indeed an honor and a tribute receive a certificate from the Collegiate Press Association proudly proclaiming that the 1952 Howler of Wake Forest College merited the superior rating of an All-American vearbook.

JUNIORS

Too sophisticated to be mistaken for lowly sophomores and yet not as worldly as the seniors, the juniors went forward to make their imprint upon the campus in a big way. While activities for juniors exclusively are limited, individuals from the class were outstanding in every phase of campus life. In sports, publications, student government, réligious activities, radio, dramatics and music, they left their never-to-be-forgotten mark. They played, sang, acted, achieved honors, and some even studied, but all enjoyed just being juniors. Many in the class were new to Wake Forest since they were transfers from neighboring colleges. They were readily accepted and incorporated into the class, many immediately attaining outstanding and important places of leadership on the campus. It was a good, busy and eventful year for the third year class, but all look forward to next year and graduation with mixed feelings of elation and regret.

TEDDY, class mascot, talks to junior class officers, Bill Hedrick, president; Pat Alphin, secretary; Smoky Bland, vice-president.

REGISTRATION

From the serenity of a relatively calm summer we returned to Wake Forest to be immediately engulfed in the business of registration. At best hectic, it was somewhat calmer this year with few casualties and fewer lost freshmen. It was a time of choice and rejection, of bewilderment, but also a time for renewed ambition. New students arrived in droves, readily becoming regular Deacons. All agreed that the best thing about registration is that it comes only twice a year, the second time giving all a new chance.

RAY LIPSTAS and Jean Maner try to concentrate on hours and credits in the middle of registration coofusion. In the background Dr. Gentry and Professor Durham offers advice to Raiph Steuer.

One Hundred Sixty-eight

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS who are ready for graduation are Ralph Brown, president; Mildred Brooks, secretary; Junie Floyd, vice-president.

SENIORS

The ivy-covered walls and brick walks of Wake Forest will soon be but a memory to these, our graduating seniors. For many, their final year and graduation is a joy, to others a sorrow, but to all it is an achievement, a realized goal, a triumph. Graduating seniors from Deacon Hollow in previous years have gone on to become outstanding leaders in our nation as well as in North Carolina. Every indication is that the seniors of '53 will carry on and even surpass this tradition, for the class overflows with talent, brains and beauty. It would indeed be difficult to choose "the most likely to succeed" or "the most talented." for the class is composed of extraordinary individuals. Many seniors look forward after graduation to a wedding (their own), others to a career. many to the army, but all can foresee a bright future made more so by their stay at Wake Forest College.

A TRIBUTE BY THE CLASS OF '53

How satisfying it must be, in the prime of life, to look back over one's days and see a great contribution you have made to the comfort and pleasure of others. The seniors this year pay tribute to two such individuals who, having given their lives in service to the College, are retiring to a much needed and well deserved rest. A familiar and always smiling face will soon be absent from the bursar's office, for Mrs. Earnshaw, beloved bursary official, is climaxing her many years of service to the College this year. As always, Mrs. Earnshaw is holding the College first in her interest and consideration, preferring to quit, in order to save the College money, rather than retire as she is entitled to do. Her prevailing sweetness, cultured dignity and kind help will be greatly missed. A man whom few of us know personally but whose work is important and evident to all, Mr. Walter D. Holliday, is retiring after forty years of service to the College. Mr. Holliday, after his student years at Wake Forest were terminated, returned in 1914 as Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds and has retained that post since, making and keeping our campus one of the most beautiful in this section. We, the students of Wake Forest College, wish you, Mrs. Earnshaw and Mr. Holliday, the very best of everything and hope that you will continue to be a vital part of the Wake Forest family.

PROMINENT SENIORS

- WHO'S WHO
 TEN OUTSTANDING SENIORS
- A friendly smile, a pleasing personality, outstanding ability and an abundance of talent are characteristics which all "big wheels" have in common. However, many hours of work and service went into making these stand above their fellow classmates. Their time has been spent
- in every phase of school and extracurricular activity. We could stick our necks out and predict that one may well be president, another a big business executive and yet another a famous actress, but one sure thing is that all have the ability to go far in their chosen fields,

One Hundred Eighty-five

1952-'53: THE SCHOOL YEAR WHEN—

Retired General Dwight David Eisenhower defeated Illinois Governor Adlai E. Stevenson for the Presidency of the United States of America. On November 4, 1952, Eisenhower, upsetting pre-election odds, was elected by the largest popular vote ever accorded any presidential candidate, "Ike" made large inroads into the heretofore "solid South." However, North Carolina did not follow several of her Dixie neighbors; she gave her electoral and popular votes to Stevenson and his running mate, Alabama Senator John Sparkman.

In a poll conducted by the International Relations Club the students of Wake Forest College followed the general North Carolina trend by allotting Stevenson a slight majority. With approximately eighty per cent of the total enrollment participating in the voting, the margin for Adlai was only forty-nine. The entire number of ballots for the Governor was 663, and for Eisenhower, 614. In a similar poll, taken before the political conventions that was "ike" defeat Senator Robert A. Taft for the Republican nomination and Stevenson "drafted" to run for the Democrats, Eisenhower had been given an overwhelming majority.

January 20, 1953, saw the inauguration of Eisenhower and the new Vice-President. Richard Nixon, formerly a senator from California. This event marked the end of a Democratic regime of twenty years, broken only by the Republicans' control of Congress in 1948. The ceremony also concluded almost eight years in the White House by Harry Truman.

One Hundred Eighty-six

MANY THANKS TO

Taylor H. Sanford, Jr., Business Manager, whose acute interest and business knowledge were primarily instrumental in increasing the ad space and our receipts to the satisfaction of the printer, the engraver and the bursar.

Marylou Johnson, Co-Associate Editor, who so willingly gave of her time to see that each plate was ordered from the engraver, to type, to write the features and to compile the index.

Guy Revelle, Co-Associate Editor, for his work in supervising the writing of all captions and identifications in addition to serving as a section editor, a typist and a general "handyman."

Julie Watson, Copy and Printing Editor, who saw that copy was brought in on time, proofed and sent to the printer before the deadline.

Byrd Barnette. Photography Editor, who tirelessly devoted time to scheduling pictures.

Doris Craven, Engraving Editor, whose leadership in drawing panels was indispensable.

The Section Editors for bringing in on time the copy which maintained the excellent standards of Wake Forest College yearbooks of the past.

The Staff Photographers, whose efforts made the difference between a delayed annual and one on time, for the originality of composition.

The Art Staff for the thumb nail sketches, division pages and entrance sketches which constitute one of the features of the book.

The Typing Staff, who faithfully came each day to take care of a thankless though important job.

The Copy Staff for their ceaseless efforts to raise the general quality of captions and copy.

Mr. Joe Yell, Jahn and Ollier Engraving Company, whose tastes and superior workmanship produced the beautiful opening and end sheets.

Mr. A. F. Smith and Mr. Chas. Waller, Waller and Smith Studios, for the class portraits, the pictures of the Magnolia Court and the continued co-operation to produce a good annual.

Mr. Charles Lee Smith, Jr.. Edwards and Broughton Company, whose advice and help enabled the 1953 HOWLER to come out on time.

Mr. Gordon Brightman, Jahn and Ollier Engraving Company, for his keen insight in guiding a woefully inexperienced editor and his staff in the planning and producing of a yearbook.

L. M. Wright, Jr., Editor, and Irvin Grigg, Photographer, Old Gold and Black, for supplying pictures of games and campus scenes.

Bugs Barringer, Rocky Mount Evening Telegram, for the pictures of football players, Smith Barrier, Greensboro Daily News, who supplied several of the football games shots.

Lawrence Wofford and Ron Stevens, Raleigh News and Observer, for providing the Howler with pictures of football games and the unusual sequence on Assistant Coach McKinney.

Sharon Smith, Cartoonist, and McNaught Syndicate, who supplied the cartoons used.

The Republican and Democratic National Headquarters for the formal portraits of Pres. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson.

Dr. Edwin G. Wilson, Adviser, who played his role effectively whenever called upon to do so.

THE EDITOR.

Dear Senior:

As you finish your college career we would like to feel that we might have been some help and inspiration to you along the way, just as you have contributed to our success and joy in business.

As you go your separate ways, rest assured that our interest in you will not cease. Regardless of your degree of success our hearts and minds will be with you.

When you return to your Alma Mater, though many changes may have developed, you will always find an old-time welcome at the College Book Store, reminiscent of your school days.

Sincerely,
